

LOCAL USED MOTOR OIL RECYCLING PROGRAMS

It is estimated that at least 200 million gallons of used motor oil ends up in the soil and water each year.

Oil that is dumped on the ground or down sewer drains will eventually end up in local lakes, rivers and streams. One gallon of used motor oil can contaminate 1 million gallons of drinking water. Used oil can be recycled and used again.

The following municipalities will accept used motor oil from residents for recycling.

If your town does not accept oil, many service stations that perform oil changes will. Please call your local service station for guidelines for the recycling of used motor oil.
